

PHIPPS PLANS SPLENDID HOTEL

Eastern Millionaire Will Erect
200-Room Structure on East Third South.

FAMILY AND TRANSIENT

APPROXIMATELY $200,000 WILL BE SPENT ON NEW HOSTELRY.

Another big hotel, to be the largest of its kind in the city when completed, and costing $200,000 in construction work alone, is being planned for Salt Lake.

Henry Phipps, the eastern steel king, has decided to erect a 200-room family and transient hotel on the site of the present Manitou hotel, just east of the Knutsford on East Third South street. Henry Phipps, Jr., son of the steel millionaire, arrived in Salt Lake Friday and closed the deal by which the new hotel goes up. Mr. Phipps left for the east with his manager, H. H. Gordon, yesterday at noon, and last night the details of the new hotel project were disclosed.

The plans are very comprehensive and embrace the tearing down of the rear arm of the L of the present hotel building and its complete reconstruction of fireproof materials. At present the Manitou is a hotel of some eighty-five rooms. These are to be increased to 200 rooms. Running water is to be installed in every room and bathroom and to be constructed for every suite of rooms in the hotel. The floors are to be and throughout the halls. The lobby is to be reconstructed and the big dining-rooms of the present building are to be moved down onto the first floor, occupying a portion of the space now occupied by the Turkish bath parlors of the Manitou and the crockery store to the east of the hotel building proper.

Will Be Thoroughly Modern.

The Turkish bathrooms, and a new barber shop will be moved to the basement. In all probability a grill room will be installed in the rear of the dining-rooms proper.

A new kitchen is to be constructed in the basement of the new building. Mr. Phipps has given Mrs. D. La Forge, the owner of the hotel, carte blanche in constructing the kitchen and it is expected this department of the new hotel will be one of the finest of its kind in the west when completed.

Mrs. La Forge and Mrs. M. E. Green are the present proprietors of the Manitou. Mrs. La Forge has purchased Mrs. Green's share and will operate the new hotel alone.

The Manitou is one of the most popular and exclusive family hotels in Salt Lake and the fact that when the new structure is completed a transient business will be done will make it one of the leading hotels of the city.

Work is to be started at once on tearing down the rear wing of the Manitou and constructing a four-story building to correspond to the remaining portion of the hotel.

BOYS DESERT SCHOOLS

Beet Fields Demand Attention and Pupils Leave Studies for Temporary Jobs.

War has been declared between the schools of Salt Lake county and the beet fields. The school authorities assert that the beet fields have encroached upon their domain and have induced the school boys to remain away from their studies. The answer from the beet fields is that the state of their health demanded that the boys spend some of their time working in the open air.

The fact is announced that the attendance in the county schools during the last month is much lower than it should have been, and school officials assign as a cause the fact that the boys are working in the beet fields harvesting the annual crop. The season is well advanced, the beets have attained full growth, and the ground has frozen, requiring much more time to harvest the crop than was the case a few weeks ago.

WILL INSPECT FIRST BATTERY

Result of Review of Artillery
Corps Will Determine Fate of Organization.

MAY BE MUSTERED OUT

REORGANIZATION OF NATIONAL GUARD IS BEGUN.

The inspection of the battery of the national guard will be held on the evening of Dec. 5 by Major W. C. Williams, its commanding officer. The review of the battery is to be held pursuant to the governor's orders and unless the battery makes a good showing it will be mustered out.

The first battery has been in ill repute since the inspection three weeks ago, when the showing made was extremely poor. The artillery used at the last encampment had not been cleaned since last summer and the entire equipment was in bad shape. Since the inspection, however, the men have been at work cleaning the equipment, and Colonel Lund hopes that it will be unnecessary to discontinue the artillery branch of the guard.

Friction in Battery.

Besides the trouble arising from the condition of the equipment there has been considerable internal friction among the men of the battery. At a meeting of a number of the enlisted men of the battery the resignation of Lieutenants Kane and Adams was demanded. The officers refused to resign and more trouble has been brewing since they made their declarations.

An inspection of company C will be called for about two weeks from yesterday and it will depend on the showing made whether or not that company will be also mustered out. Under the reorganization scheme of Governor Cutler the troop and one of the other companies of the guard may be mustered out, as their organizations are not up to the military standard.

BOULDER CRUSHES HIM TO DEATH

Albert Angell, Pioneer, Fatally
Hurt at Portland Cement
Company's Quarry.

FAILS TO HEAR WARNING

CONSCIOUS WHEN PICKED UP—DIES IN AGONY.

Albert Angell, a pioneer resident of Salt Lake, died yesterday afternoon from injuries sustained yesterday morning while at work at the Portland Cement company's quarry in Parley's canyon.

Mr. Angell was drilling in the upper quarry, some distance up the side of the hill, when a large rock rolled down the hillside. Two Austrians who were working near by ran to safety, yelling as they did so to warn Mr. Angell, who was directly in the path of the boulder. As he was slightly deaf, the warning was not heard, and an instant later the rock struck the stooping man and rolled over him.

As the boulder weighed nearly a ton it was thought Mr. Angell would be instantly killed. He was found to be still alive and was carried to a house near the quarry. Dr. C. Stewart of Sugar House was summoned by telephone. The physician did everything in his power to make the injured man as comfortable as possible.

Injured Man Conscious.

The injured man was conscious and answered questions, although apparently in great agony. He lived until 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

"Oh, come here," he gasped, suddenly, with hands outstretched. Before those in the room could reach him he was dead. Relatives in Salt Lake were notified and the body was brought into the city on the Park City train and taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. J. Charon, 555 Sixth East street, with whom he has lived for years.

Albert Angell was 65 years old. He came to Utah with the third band of pioneers, and has been a resident of Salt Lake ever since. A wife and six children survive him. There are two sons and four daughters: A. F. Angell, a bookkeeper of this city; Frank Angell, a member of the Salt Lake fire department; Mrs. A. F. Jacobson of Omaha; Mrs. L. C. Angell, Mrs. Harry Woolrich and Mrs. William Brusch of Salt Lake.

CAPITALIZATION INCREASED

Standard of Bingham Changes Name and Adds $1,600,000 to Treasury Stock.

At a meeting of the directors and stockholders of the Standard Mining company of Bingham, held yesterday afternoon, a resolution increasing the capitalization of the company from $1,000,000 to $2,600,000 was adopted. The capital stock of the company was increased by raising the par value of the stock from $1 to $5 per share. The treasury stock consists of 400,000 shares. The name of the corporation was also changed to the Bingham Standard. The reasons given by the members of the board for the increased capitalization is that the company has recently acquired a large area of territory, including absorbed the Croesus, American, Washakie, Little Treasure, Smyth, J. H. S. group and other nearby properties.

The company is now developing a promising lead proposition, which runs 50 per cent of the heavy metal, with fifty ounces of silver to the ton. It was announced last night that W. E. Clark of the Bingham Consolidated Mining company had been elected president of the company, but this could not be confirmed.

WIDE RANGE IN NOVEMBER.

According to the monthly summary of weather conditions for the month, November furnished a total of ten clear days out of a total of thirty. Of the balance six were recorded as partly cloudy and the balance cloudy. The highest temperature reached during the month was 67 degrees on the 14th and the lowest 11 degrees on the 29th. The mean temperature for the month was 53 degrees, which is comparatively mild.

Method Straightforward.

As a clairvoyant the methods employed by Mrs. Ruebhausen vary considerably from those used by the ordinary professional soothsayer. She is not in the least mysterious, she does not go into a trance, does not believe in spiritualism, nor does she employ any deceptive mechanical apparatus, such as was used by the Arnold-Dickson brothers to entice the gullible into separating themselves from their money.

Mrs. Ruebhausen is a comely, middle-aged woman, with the peculiar retiring nature common to blind people. She has a husband and a large family of children and apparently lives a quiet and contented life, despite the fact that by a single word she causes millionaires to stake big money on a single turn of the wheel.

Does Rushing Business.

To secure a "reading" from the blind clairvoyant it is necessary to secure an appointment with her some days ahead of time, for she is a busy woman and is engaged all day long ministering to her moneyed patrons who drive to her modest dwelling in the quiet and contented life, despite the fact that by a single word she causes millionaires to stake big money on a single turn of the wheel.

Nothing to Conceal.

Though she was aware that she was talking for publication, Mrs. Ruebhausen said she neither sought nor shunned an investigation into her work. She averred that she had nothing to conceal. When she was six years old she lost her sight after an attack of typhoid fever. As a sort of recompense for her loss of sight she turned to the future and the past. This, she said, she did by the use of her "clairvoyance." She had no doubts as to the accuracy of her vision, and what she saw frightened her. She cried and begged to have a handkerchief over her eyes so as to shut off the view of the coming events, but it did not obscure the vision.

Queen of the Pit.

She came to Salt Lake fifteen years ago and has since been interested in the mining business. The mountains about her showed her veins of rich ore and she began to mine. She was not content with the ore she brought to her and without hesitation she described in detail the location and the veins from which they came. She applied this knowledge to the stock market and is now known to the brokers as the "queen of the pit," though as a matter of fact she does not frequent the market at all. The mining men do not attempt to explain her power and depth of the ore is said to have been marvelous. To her, however, it seems to be a matter of course that whatever she prophesies turns out to be true.

Faces Death Calmly.

At one time while traveling on a burro over the mountains the animal fell and narrowly escaped going over a 500-foot precipice. Mrs. Ruebhausen was the only one of the party who was not greatly alarmed. She said that her knowledge of the future told her that she did not become at all frightened.

The blind woman said that from her psychic observations on her journey that Yerington and Eldorado Canyon would prove the more profitable camps than Ely.

Prescription Causes Suit.

Alleging that the Willis-Horne Drug company failed to properly fill a prescription which was given her by her family physician, and that she was greatly injured in health by taking the medicine furnished by the defendants, Geneva Knowlton filed suit in the district court yesterday to recover $5,000 and the costs of the action.

Goldfield, or Tonopah. She said the veins of copper and silver in Nevada and California were much more valuable than the gold held for the ore was more permanent and would not run out.

While at Yerington the soothsayer located water for the miners, it is said, and it was reached after drilling 45 feet. In Inyo county, California, she located oil and secured several valuable claims.

Air of Supernatural.

In her conversation she showed great familiarity with ores and minerals and with the conditions that prevail in Nevada. She told of her wonderful power in a manner that allowed no contradiction, though to the average listener the gift she claims to possess takes on an air of the supernatural.

While in Los Angeles the blind woman met Walter Scott of Death Valley fame, and secured a version of his inner life. The clairvoyant says that "Scotty" is a "white" and simple and that he will soon land in the penitentiary. She said that the ore that "Scotty" sells is stolen for him from different mining camps by a gang of half breeds of which he is the leader.

Mrs. Ruebhausen modestly claims the credit for predicting the San Francisco earthquake. She said that she was in San Francisco two weeks before the disaster and the town was pictured as a blind by the unseen power as a huge cemetery and she immediately left the city.

Fame Spreads Rapidly.

On her return from the Nevada trip the blind woman's fame spread and she is being deluged by mining men of all descriptions to learn about the future of their holdings.

Her injunction to one man a short time ago to buy "Boston Con." caused him to sell his home and invest everything he had in stocks. He bought at 7 1/2 some months ago and recently sold at 32. When the company Mrs. Ruebhausen is supernaturally gifted is an absorbing topic among those who know her. Some of them call it hypnotism, others a black art, others an occult science and others mental telepathy, but none of them deny that the woman is really a marvel.

WIFE SUES SHAUGHNESSY

Former Marshal of Utah Is Made Defendant in Divorce Suit.

Application was filed in the district court yesterday by Mrs. Winnifred K. Shaughnessy for a divorce from Michael Shaughnessy. The defendant was at one time marshal of Utah. Colonel and Mrs. Shaughnessy were married in San Francisco, September 10, 1895, but Mrs. Shaughnessy alleges that for the last three years her husband has failed to provide her with the necessities of life, and that he is absolutely unable to do so.

There is one child, named for the mother, Winnifred K. Shaughnessy. The girl is 9 years old and the mother asks for her care and custody. General relief is asked for, though the attorney desired or expected is not specified.

WILLIAM H. KORNS SUED.

Morrison Mining Company Asks for Value of Engine.

William H. Korn was made defendant in a suit filed yesterday in the district court by the Morrison Mining company, which asks for damages in the sum of $2,145 and costs.

The plaintiffs allege that they stored with the defendants a gasoline engine and appliances, and that the defendant failed to return it to them when repeated demands were made. The engine and fixtures are valued by the plaintiffs at $1,615, and they seek to recover this amount and $500 damages, stating that they had to buy another engine and outfit.

Prescription Causes Suit.

Alleging that the Willis-Horne Drug company failed to properly fill a prescription which was given her by her family physician, and that she was greatly injured in health by taking the medicine furnished by the defendants, Geneva Knowlton filed suit in the district court yesterday to recover $5,000 and the costs of the action.
